In the rear of the dress circle and extending all around it, will be a corridor twenty-two feet wide and flanked on both sides by refreshment and cigar saloons. The main entrance to the opera house will be on Richardson-street, to the left of the building, and, in addition to the ticket office, provision will be made for a cloak room and soda and newspaper stands. There will also be two outlets on Taylor street, and in the rear of the building, a large elevator, to facilitate the delivery of the machinery and other stage appurtenances, in the event of fire. In brief, the general appointments of the house will be thoroughly modern and luxurious, and the building, both in its exterior display and interior arrangement, will reflect credit upon

CHARLESTON.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 14, 1869. The Memphis Commercial Convention

This Convention, of which we have already spoken, will assemble in Memphis on Tuesday, the 18th day of May next, the day designated by the Chamber of Commerce of the city. One of the objects of the convention, as set forth in the circular announcing its meeting, is to secure the cordial and active co operation of the people of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys in the effort to build up direct trade with Europe through South Atlantic seaports; not in a spirit of opposition to North Atlantic cities, but in that of a generous rivalry which will cement all portions of the Union through the kindly influences of mutual interests and a general prosperity. Another object is to discuss the necessity for a railroad from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Ocean, over a route unobstructed all the year. A third may be that of leveeing the Mississippi, so as to save from inundation, and bring into speedy cultivation, the most prothe subject of immigration. To facilitate the deliberations of the convention the committee of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce suggest the following ratio of representation :

ductive cotton lands in the world. A fourth,

That the Governor of each State and Territory will appoint a delegation, not exceeding ten for the State at large and one for each Congressional district.

That each city or town will appoint but wo delegates for a population under five thousand, and one for each additional ten thousand.

That each incorporated railroad, steamboat, manufacturing or mining company, will appoint but two delegates.

That each Chamber of Commerce or Board of Trade will appoint but one delegate for every one hundred members or fractional hundred.

Every one appointed or specially invited, is requested to notify the committee if he can attend, and take with him some form of credential as a delegate.

The objects of the convention are most important to this city and State. In the effort to build up direct trade with Europe, in the construction of a Southern Pacific Railroad, and in the subject of immigration, we are deeply interested; and it is not to be expected that, whatever our natural advanages, we can be represented by others as well as by those who know what we are, what we have done and what we mean to do. In every Southern convention Charleston and South Carolina should be represented, and while we think that the scale of representation suggested by the Memphis committee is likely to make the delegations too large and unwieldly, we have no doubt whatever as to the propriety of sending a strong delegation. And if in this connection it be permitted to make a suggestion as to the character of delegates to be chosen, we would urge that gentlemen be selected who are familiar with the railroad and maritime systems of South Carolina, who know what our strength is and where our weakness lies, and who will make themselves heard upon every topic connected with the commerce, agriculture and manufactures of the South. As much, we believe, depends upon the ability of our advocates, as upon the strength of their cause and ours.

The Blue Ridge Railroad.

The report of the Chief Engineer of the Blue Ridge Railroad Company, published with the proceedings of the late meeting of stockholders, gives a satisfactory account of the condition of the work already done upon the road. During the long abandonment of the undertaking, the read has suffered but little, aside from the ordinary wasting of earthwork long exposed to the weather; while by the undermining of masonry, the breaking of embankments by freshets, and the falling of the roofs of the tunnels, but little damage has been done. A remeasurement of the work required to complete the road is being made, and within a few weeks the exact cost of finishing the line to Clayton and the North Carolina line, respectively, will be made known.

The grand question now is how to obtain the money for building the road throughout. This is a subject to which the earnest attention of the directors has been given, it being determined at the meeting of the stockholders held last week in this city, to authorize and require them to execute the new mortgage bonds to be endorsed by the State, and to advertise for bids to build the entire road from Walhalla to Knoxville, payment to be made in the first mortgage onds with the endorsement of the State of South Carolina. These bonds, to the extent of $2,000,000, form the available means of the company. They are endersed by this State, which is fully able to provide for every dollar of its liabilities, and are a practical evidence of the interest which is felt in the completion of the road. More than three million of dellars have already been spent, this large sum being valueless te the State, to the city and to the stockholders, until the line is run through to one of its connecting points. In their report, which was adopted by the stockholders, the committee to whem were referred the reports of the Directors and Engineer, say: "It will be seen by "these reports that the unfinished work "hitherto done upon the line of read is in "an excellent state of preservation, having been originally most faithfully done, and

"having suffered but little injury from the lapse of time. They will, consequently, "make it plain that the work already done, "having cost three millions and a half dol-"lars in coin, and being now in a good "state of preservation, constitutes, when "united to the cost of completion, an un-"doubted security under the mortgage, for SCHNAPPS, was in reduced into the world under "the bonds to be now issued, limited in "amount as they will be to the sum neces-"sary to complete the work. And this in"dependently of the State guarantee." And the Engineer in his report says: "If the contract can be made without delay "with men of capital, experience and energy, "little is hazarded in the prediction, that "in June, 1871, there will be direct railroad communication between the Tennessee "Valley and Charleston. Completed so far, "it is impossible that the enterprise should "stand still. The difficulties of the route would have been passed; the mountain "region, with the tunnels, the heavy earthwork, and the expensive structures, which "absorb capital, task the patience and test "the skill, will be behind us, and from "thence to meet the line from Knoxville we "follow a route opened by the hand of na-"ture, which has broken the Alleghanies "before us, and given the road a clear path "to the rich valley of East Tennessee."

Now, then, is the time to press the Blue Ridge Railroad upon the attention of the great cities of the West. Never before has the public mind, especially in Cincinnati and Louisville, been so thoroughly aroused upon the subject, and no opportunity should be lost of obtaining the support and assistance which are required. President Harrison has been indefatigable in his labors; but he can do nothing more without money and men.

THE Washington dispatch published yesterday, in regard to the Supreme Court, should have read that the court held that Congress had the right to adopt measures of reconstruction.

Schiedam Schnapps.

OFFICE OF UDOLPHO WOLFE, Sole Importer of the Schiedam Aromatic Schinapps, No 22 Benver-street. New York, November 3, 1868. To the People of the Southern States: WHEN THE PURE MEDICINAL RESTORATIVE now so widely known as WOLFE'S SCHIEDAM

the endorsement of four thousand leading members of the medical protession some twenty years ago, its proprietor was well aware that it could not wholly escape the penalty attached to all new and useful preparations. He, therefore, endeavored to invest i with strongest possible safeguard against counterfeiters, and to render all attempts to prate it difficult and dangerous. It was submitted to distinguished chemists for analysis, and pronounced by them the purest spirit ever manufactured. Its purity and properties having been thus ascertained, samples of the article were forwarded to ten thousand physicians, including all the leading practitioners in the United States, for purposes of experiment. A circular, requesting a trial of the preparation and a report of the result, accompanied each specimen. Four thousand of the most eminent medical men is the Union promptly responded. Their opinions of the article were unanimously favorable. Such a preparation, they said, had long been wanted by the profession, as no reliance could be placed on the ordinary liquors of commerce, all of which were more or less adulterated, and therefore until for medical purposes. The peculiar ex ellence and strength of the oi of jumper, which formed one of the principal ingredients of the Schnapps, together with an unalloyed character of the alcoholic element, give it, in the estimation of the faculty, a marked superiority over every other diffusive stimulant as a diuretic, tonic and restorative.

These satisfactory credentials from professiona men of the highest rank were published in a condensed form, and enclosed with each bottle of the Schnapps, as one of the guarantees of its genuine ness. Other precautions sgainst traud were also adopted; a patent was obtained for the article, the label was copyrighted, a fac simile of the proprietor's autograph signature was attached to each label and cover, his name and that of the proparation were embossed on the bottles, and the corks were sealed with his private seal. No article had ever been sold in this country under the name of Schnapps prior to the introduction of Wolfe's Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps, in 1851; and the label was deposited, as his trade mark, in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York during that

It might be supposed by persons unacquainted with the daring character of the pirates who prey upou the reputation of honorable merchants by vending deleterious trash under their name, that the protections so carefully thrown around these Sohnapps would have precluded the introductions and sale of counterfeits. They seem, however, only to have stimulated the rapacity of impostors. The trade mark of the proprietor has been stolen; the indorse ment which his Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps alone received from the medical profession has been aimed by mendacious humbugs; his labels and bottles have been imitated, his advertisements para phrased, his circulars copied, and worse than all dishonorable retailers, after disposing of the genuine contents of his bottles, have filed them up with common gin, the most deleterious of all liquors, and hus made his name and brand a cover for poison. The public, the medical profession and the sick for whom the Schiedam Arematic Fehnapps is pre scribed as a remedy, are equally interested with the proprietor in the detection and suppression of these netarious practices. The genuine article, manufac tured at the establishment of the undersigned in chiedam, Holland, is distilled from a barley of the finest quality, and flavored with an essential extract of the berry of the Italian jumper, of unequalled purity. By a process unknown in the preparation o any other liquor, it is treed from every acrimonious and corrosive element. Complaints have been received from the leading physicians and families in the Southern States o the sale of cheap imitations of the Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps in those markets; and travellers, who are in the habit of using it as an antidote to the banefits influence of unwholesome river water, tes-tify the cheap gin, put up in Schiedam bottles, is frequently palmed off upon the unwary. The agents of the undersigned have been requested to nstitute inquiries on the subject, and to forward to him the names of such parties as they may ascertain to be engaged in the atrocious system of decepion. In conclusion, the undersigned would say that he has produced, from under the hands of the most distinguished men of science in America, proofs un answerable of the purity and medicinal excel lence of the Schiedam Arematic Schnapps ; that rounding it with guarantees and safeguards, which he designed should protect the public and himsel against fraudulent imitations; that he has shown it to be the only liquor in the world that can be uniformly depended upon as unadulterated; that he has challenged investigation, analysis, comparison and experiment in all its forms; and from every ordeal he preparation whi h bears his name, seal and trade mark, has come off triumphant. He, therefore, feels it a duty he owes to his fellow-citizens generally, to the medical profession and the sick, to denounce and expose the charlatens who counterfeit these evidenotes of identity, and he calls upon the press and the public to aid him in his efforts to remedy se great leading physicians and chemists of this city will prove to the reader that all goods sold by the undersigne lare all that they are penrey ented to be UDOLPHO WOLFE.

I feel bound to say, that I regard your Schnapps as being in every respect pre-eminently pure, and deserving of medical patronage. At all events, it is the purest possible article of Holland Gin, hereto-tore unobtainable, and as such may be safely pronobtainable, and by physicians.

26 PINESTREET, New York,
Nevember 21, 1867.

Upolific Wolffe, Esq., Prezent:

Dear Sir—I have made a chemical examination of a sample of your Schiedam Schinapps, with the intent of determining if any foreign or injurious substance had been added to the simple distilled spirits.

The examination has resulted in the conclusion that the sample contained no poisonous or harmful admixture. I have been unable to discover any trace of the deleterious substances which are employed in the adulteration of liquors. I would not besitate to use myself or to recommend to others, for medicinal purposes, the Schiedam Schnapps as an excellent and unobjectionable variety of gin.

Very respectfully yours,

UDDLIFHO WOLFE, Esq., Present:

Dear Sir—I have submitted to chemical analysis two bottles of "Schiedam Schnappa," which I took from a fresh package in your bonded warehouse, and find, as before, that the spirituous liquor is free from injurious ingredients or falsification; that it has the marks of being aged and not recently prepared by mechanical admixture of alcohol and aromatics.

NEW, York, Tuesday, May 1.

UDOLPHO WOLFE, Esq.:

Dear Sir—The want of pure Wines and Liquors for medicinal purposes has been long feit by the profession, and thousands of lives have been ascrificed by the use of adulterated articles. Delirium tremens, and other diseases o. the brain and nerves, so rife in this country, are very rare in Europe, owing, in a great degree, to the difference in the purity of the spirits seld.

We have tested the several articles imported and sold by you, mounding your Gin, which you sell under the name of aromatic schiedam Schnapps, which we consider justly entitled to the high reputation it has acquired in this country; and from your long experience as a foreign importer, your Bottled Wines and Liquors should most with the same demand.

We would recommend you to appoint some of the city as agants for the sale of your Brandies and Wines, where the profession can obtain the same when needed for medicinal purposes.

Wishing you success is your new enterprise,
